

JOMC 291

Social Justice, Human Rights and the Media

M/W: 12:00 - 1:15 p.m.

Location: Andersen Hall Room 15

Instructor: Sriyani Tidball

Number of Students: 120 (max)

This class will qualify for an ACE 8 or ACE 9

The need for social justice, lack of human rights and the important role of communications which includes journalism, advertising, public relations, and social media, to solvein solving important issues have advanced to the forefront of everyday living- domestically and internationally.

This class will focus on the role of ethical principles and social responsibility and their importance in society and the media today. We will be studying, and analyzing the issue of local and global human trafficking and pursue ways of advancing knowledge and solutions in the areas of awareness, prevention, education, and the role of media.